My dear Sir

I sent a letter to Whitlam which I hope reached you. I am sorry to say our people killed an unfortunate old man at Whakarae. a couple Major Lambert tried all he could rescue him but was unable to do so. It is a great pity such things cannot be prevented but of course it is no use reasoning with natives under such circumstances -

Please excuse the fact that of the enclosed letters, they were on the table of the man I have alluded to they are not of recent date but still are of importance I think. You will see the allusion to the Pateu - for natives are all in good spirits and appear quite willing to have another trial. I have no other news at this time only I thought you would like to see the letters. I have copied of them -

I am my dear father's Deighton.
