Clydebank Wairoa 22nd June 1875
Sir Donald McLean
My dear Sir Donald I received your telegram two days since; I was from home, when it arrived I thank you for the honor you wish to confer on me, as also for the good opinion you must entertain in that you call on me, to have my name enrolled; amongst those holding commissions of the peace for the colony; but at the same time, I hope, you will permit me to decline:— I am fully sensible of the honor, you would confer upon me; and that it is one, which any true and loyal, citizen, should be proud to hold; but unfortunately, I do not consider my position; as yet, sufficiently fixed, to enable me to take my place on the bench, with that amount of independence, or rather dignity, which I think necessary, for one intrusted with swearing to the laws of his country being properly earned out; were it not for this, I should be very proud indeed, to hold commission of the peace; as I am not without ambition, and even now, were I situated at a distance from a center of population, I would return a different answer, but leaving as near town - as I mean, do I predict often he called upon to sit on the bench, and I predict not like to do so, unless in such a position, as to do credit to an appointment made by Sir John a lot of years recommendation, had you asked me eighteen months hence, I would gladly have accepted, but I hope by that time, if well, to be able to take some rest, and you are well aware, that we have all a hard struggle; at the first before we get a footing on the ladder - I am glad to see, you have managed to extinguish the native life, you so much land in this district, it is the best thing could happen, for the natives themselves; I have thought much of native matters, since coming here; and get changed views, I now honestly believe, that unlike the Maori shames off the burden of his lands; he will never, he any thing but a Maori; and, that as soon as he finds, he can not swim about, first to one great ground, then to another, few miles distant, he will show better than a life of indolence; and he fully able to compete in the battle of life, with his Euro-pean neighbor. at the time I thought the natives were wronged, and in some instances, certainly were, but such proving dual, to be the case, from what I see of the Papua Tribes; the result has been good: With regard to the lands you have acquired here, if properly administered, and not allowed to be swept up by speculators, I can see a future for St. Vrain, and a gain to the whole country; without settlers, the Maori, though possessing an exceptionally fine climate, and fair, to really first class land, will always be poor, and badly situated, and at the extreme end of the two provinces with land, I might almost say my reach, could communication with the capital; his witness over mail communication) no papers for three weeks from four to five hundred; each of these will return the good to taxes at least the for amount How comes the increased revenue, from the value increase of population; but the class of men who here, are those with a little money: you are now pouring immigrants in to the country; some here; of course you can not expect them all to be prudent, and to save money, still a majority, though perhaps a small one, will do so; they will rather want land, to make homes for themselves; these are the men, who would come here; if you give the land on deferred payments: I do not believe in the 40 acre scheme, give men not less than 300 acres, not more than 600, and you create, an independant yeoman class, I think, the 40 acres; generally leads to poverty, as at all events, an undesirable class of people: of course selections would have to be made; under supervision: so that no one person should monopolise, too much portage to road, as never, get a class of men such as I say, situated in Wairoa: and you can withdraw your troops; see to some place else; give a man a home, and he will protect it; but supposing the land to be so given, on deferred payments, it should be made compulsory for the original holder, to keep the land, bona fide, in his own possession - for at least 8, or 9, years he must not sell, unless to Govt, and then only at original cost: for depend upon it, unless some provision of this sort, is made, land speculators (who are a curse to any country) will manage to get hold of it, You have a good example of this, in the way in which the indentured of the government, got defeated, namely the Waikato military settlers land scheme on deferred payments. I do not know how much land was given away, but think I am far ~~and~~ the mark in saying 1000 acres and this was the original land, which entitled to application, will bring it up to more than 15,000 acres a rough calculation, but certain ly though I have no certain data to go on under the mark: this land instead of being held, by 40, or perhaps 60, settlers is now in the hands of some five, or six, any other land you give on deferred payments, unless you do something, as I propose, and put a clause in your act, that the land will revert to the govt, if the original holders want to dispose of it: within a specified time will certainly be mopped up also

There is a very fine piece of land on the coast, here, between Raukawa and Whakaki, there will be between six and seven thousand acres; about half of it, as good as any land in New Zealand: I think I have heard, that you were once, particularly anxious to acquire part of it (Tahaenui) for the purpose of putting vine growers there.

The land has not passed the Native Lands Court, and is not yet dealt with; old Sata Whanga, is I should think the chief owner, I was told a few days since, (whether rightly or wrongly, I can not say) that certain parties, are pressing the old man to pay a debt, and want to lease this block from him, as payment. If you can prevent it, this block should not be allowed to pass in to any but the government hands: it is most valuable, from position, quality of land, and climate. I really believe, the orange, would grow in Tahaenui valley.
I fear to trespass further on your time which is too valuable to be wasted.
Whatever suggestions I have made are made thinking of the good of the district and hoping you will. You have quite recovered from the illness you had in Napier.
Believe me, yours very sincerely,
Hector Ross Duff
