

4 pages written 26 Nov 1857 by Jessie Anna McLean to Sir Donald McLean

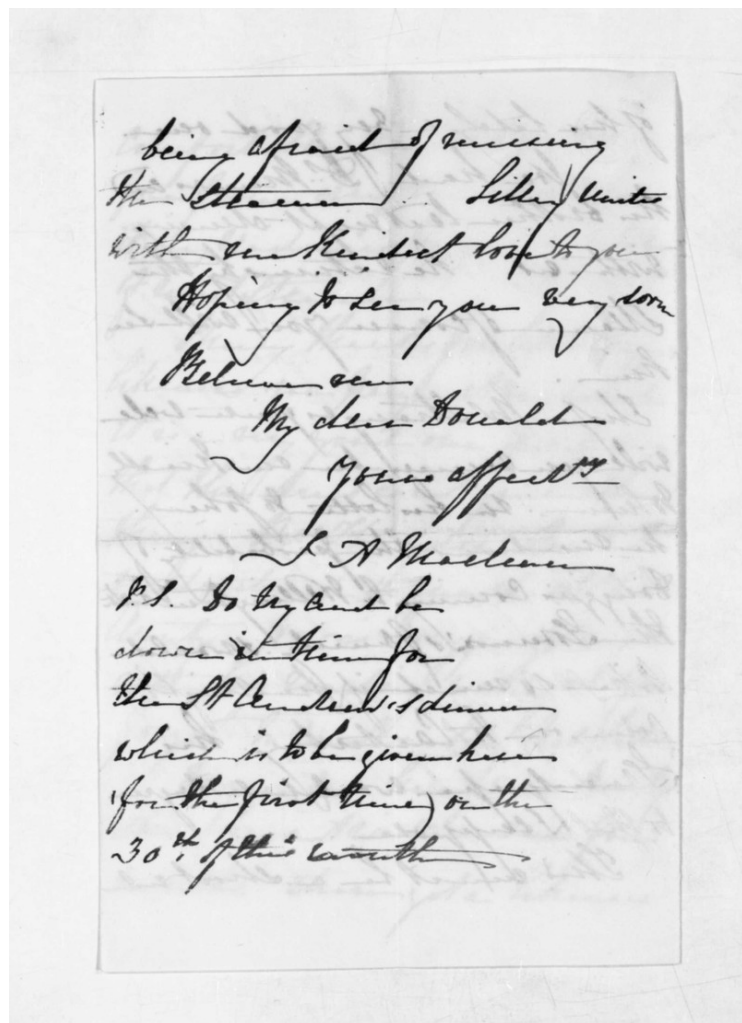

4 pages written 26 Nov 1857 by Jessie Anna McLean to Sir Donald McLean

Comfortable ~~now~~ but just fear from sleep. Will have it in readiness for you by letter of next afternoon.
 Many thanks for little Duggie's likeness. we find it very much it is a very good one excepting that the eyes is not quite the thing. Mr. Kingdon does not understand so much about beauty. How is Duggie getting on with his reading writing etc you forgot to enclose his last letter.
 As you can hear from Aunt she has not written me for months. There yet a likeness

4 pages written 26 Nov 1857 by Jessie Anna McLean to Sir Donald McLean

of her lately a very good one.
 We had J. D. Munn and his brother last night dining with us. He returns by the steamer of course you will see him.
 Chief W. Strong is just well will you remember him very kindly when in his letter to John he mentions the probability of Druggie's coming to Wellington with the Governor's family. I would like so much if she might come on to Canterbury. His Grandfather would not agree to that I suppose.
 I had expected he a short while

4 pages written 26 Nov 1857 by Jessie Anna McLean to Sir Donald McLean

being afraid of missing the steamer Lillywhite with our kindest love to you Hoping to see you very soon Believe me
My dear Donald Yours affectionately
J. A. McLean
P.S. Do try and be down in time for the St Andrew's dinner which is to be given here (for the first time) on the 30th of this month