satiate his pride as best I can and get other important men such as Hahau, Karimu & others to step in at the proper time to drag the land into the sea. No easy task I admit, with such emphatic claimants and bitter jealousies towards each other, you may however rest satisfied that nothing shall be done with the slightest risk of disturbing the peace of the Province.

In haste

Faithfully yours

H. Halse
